

For 37 years, Northwest Hospitality Carpets has been in the business of making beautiful carpet. We continually strive to refine our processes and invigorate our tastes so that we can offer our customers quality products at the best value. We consider investment in our company an investment in the industry and we value our partners in business as those with whom we share mutual interests.

Service is a top priority; therefore we work to improve our internal efficiencies in order to be more productive and a reliable asset to those making high-demand decisions. We remain flexible and eager to help develop solutions to each unique project, while also maintaining an extensive collection of on-demand running-line products that meet contemporary styling trends.

We value the commitments of our industry to be responsible stewards of the resources we are given. We also wish for our products to help contribute to safe and healthy environments for the people who enjoy them. In that spirit, we partner with our suppliers, end-users and third party advocates to eliminate waste in our production and consumption cycles, as well as comply with all industry standards of health and safety.

Specifically, our Sustainability efforts include diverting virtually all of our internal waste toward recycling, including that from both our manufacturing and administrative processes. Northwest is also a proud supporter of Carpet America Recovery Effort (CARE), a non-profit organization devoted to reducing the amount of used carpet put in landfills by finding market based solutions to used carpet waste, as well as helping to develop the missing infrastructure for dealing effectively with such waste.

All Northwest carpet products are conducive to healthy human environments by being certified as low emitters of VOC's under the CRI Green Label Plus program. This certification qualifies all of our carpets for one LEED point under Indoor Environmental Quality Credit 4.3 for Low-Emitting Materials – Flooring System. Our products might also contribute to other LEED credits, in conjunction with other building materials. Please see our Green brochure for a list of other possible credits.

The raw material components of Northwest products are entirely synthetic; therefore there is the potential for those materials to consist of recycled content. From the primary and secondary backings, to the yarns used in tufting, there are options available to utilize highly sustainable raw materials. One such option is the 100% recycled solution dyed nylon ECONYL® from Aquafil. Aquafil, a close industry partner with Northwest, is a leader in sustainability, pushing for entirely closed-loop systems in their industrial processes. Most impressively, they accomplish these sustainability goals with no loss to the excellent performance qualities of their product.

Please download the complete Northwest Green Brochure here:
<https://www.hightail.com/download/ZUczV296b0I3bUNKUmNUQw>

We are grateful for the hard work of our team at Northwest and hope that we might continue to win the favor of the Hospitality Industry through our dedication to excellence in every aspect of our business.

www.NorthwestCarpets.com