

Alison Bane

USGBC

LEED Certification Reviewer

For almost two decades, Alison has worked as an interior designer with a focus on sustainable materials and systems. She spent the last two and a half years as Interior Design Director with SERA Architects in Portland Oregon. Two months ago, she shifted gears and is now a LEED Certification Reviewer with the United States Green Building Council. While her heart will always be anchored in the beauty of design and what it can do for our world her new path, aiding teams with their sustainable goals, is her new found focus and passion.

Alison is a former speaker with the Green Voices series. She spoke two years ago on Transparency: A Way to Inform Healthier Material Choices.

Alison holds a Bachelor's degree from the University of Massachusetts - Amherst in Interior Design and Architectural Studies.